TUPIZA - BOLIVIA

INTERNSHIP IN TUPIZA – BOLIVIA 2012

1. About Tupiza.

Tupiza is a city in Potosí Department, Bolivia. It is located at around 21°26'15"S 65°42'57"W 21.4375°S 65.71583°W at an elevation of about 3160 m. The population is 23,100 (2006 official estimate).

How is Tupiza. Tupiza and its environs are characterized by dramatic red escarpments which jut ruggedly skyward from the coarse, gray terrain; green agricultural land adjacent to the Río Tupiza provides welcome respite from the otherwise arid, thorny surroundings. The area quebradas are susceptible to flash flood runoff from sudden cloudbursts.

How to arrive. It is accessible via bus from Villazón to the south (and thereby both Argentina and Tarija) and Potosí to the north, as well as via the north-south train which served the mining settlements and runs the same route. From Tupiza, various towns in the local mining districts are accessible, as is the Salar de Uyuni.
